

MOONSHINE FATAL TO PAINT LICK BLACKSMITH

Walter Azbill Succumbs To Poisoning, His Brother Tells Grand Jury Here, After Taking Several Drinks

The deadly potash, or whatever the poison is that moonshiners are said to be using in making white liquor these days, got in its work in Paint Lick Tuesday, and caused the death of Walter Azbill, a well known young blacksmith of that place, just over the Madison-Garrard line, if a story that his brother, Albert Azbill, of Richmond, told the Madison county grand jury Wednesday, is true.

And the unusual feature of the case is that just about the time Azbill was telling the grand jury the particulars of his brother's death, the man, who he said, is believed to have sold him the whisky that caused his death, was being arrested by Sheriff P. S. Whitlock near Berea. He was Barney Thomas, who was taken into custody by the sheriff as he got off the northbound train at Mayde station. Thomas had a suit case in which were found four half gallon self-sealing jars of white whisky. He was brought to jail here at once, securely handcuffed by the sheriff.

Mr. Azbill, who testified before the grand jury late Wednesday about the manner of his brother's death, said that his brother drank a little white whisky at his blacksmith shop Monday, with some friends. They had bought it, it seemed, from a man, who Mr. Azbill says, is believed to be Barney Thomas. That night Walter Azbill told his wife that he was suffering with a severe pain in the back of his head. The next morning it was much worse, and he showed evidences of poisoning. A physician was summoned and pronounced it poisoning. His stomach was giving him great pain and great whelps broke out on the abdomen. His pain was intense and he soon passed away. Officers here say that the physician said that potash poisoning was the cause of his death.

His brother here told the entire story frankly to the local grand jury in its investigation for violations of the liquor law. He said that he would go to Paint Lick and spend Thursday there making a thorough investigation of his brother's death. He said that he felt sure that he could find a number of witnesses there, who could identify positively the man from whom his brother bought who sold the whisky. He is determined to ferret the matter to the bottom. In the event sufficient evidence should be obtained to charge anyone with causing the death of Walter Azbill, the prosecution will be brought in Garrard county for the dead man lived on the Garrard side of Paint Lick creek, and the Garrard circuit court would have jurisdiction of the case.

Walter Azbill, who died from the fatal draught, was about 35 years old, and was highly regarded by all who knew him. He was a sturdy young blacksmith, with a wife and several children.

Grain

At the opening of the week trading larger movement, small demand and lack of export trade caused price declines, but these losses were more than recovered on the 19th and 21st under resumption of export business, small country offering, slow milling demand and a decrease in the visible supply of both wheat and corn. On the 23rd the market was unsettled and prices fluctuated rapidly within a narrow range. Sentiment is mixed with no strong incentives for either buying or selling. In Chicago cash market, No. 2 red winter wheat, 1 5/8 to 20c over March; No. 2 hard 3 to 5c over; No. 3 mixed corn 1 1/4c under May; yellow same. In Minneapolis No. 2 dark 11 to 20c over Minneapolis March; Kansas City reports export demand fair, milling demand good. No. 2 hard 5 1/2c over Kansas City closing price, Chicago March wheat $1.71 3/8; May corn 71 1/4; Minneapolis March wheat $1.57 7/8; Kansas City March $1.61 7/8; Winnipeg $1.86 1/2; Chicago May wheat $1.61 1/2. Net price changes for week only fractional.

HAD TWO GALLONS OF 'SHINE IN GRIP

Barney Thomas Arrested By Sheriff Whitlock As He Steps From Train At Mayde

Tipped off, first by the voice of an unknown woman over the telephone, and later by Albert Azbill, brother of Walter Azbill who died at Paint Lick from drinking moonshine whisky, Sheriff Pete Whitlock made one of the cleverest captures of 'shine bootleggers of the season Wednesday afternoon. Just as Barney Thomas got off the northbound L. & N. train at Mayde, near Berea, the Sheriff took charge of him and his valise. In it, were four half gallon jars of white whisky.

Over the hill a short distance and apparently waiting for him, was the young man's uncle, N. P. Thomas, in a buggy. He was taken along with the officers. In the buggy was a shotgun and a lot of sacks, which Sheriff Whitlock says he believes were to have been used to wrap up the jars of moonshine.

Both men were brought to jail here, and their cases will undoubtedly be considered by the sitting grand jury. Barney Thomas' home is understood to be in the Paint Lick section. Albert Azbill says that he believes that he is the man who sold his brother the moonshine liquor that caused his death.

He would have nothing to say when brought in by the officers. The sheriff had sent his son down on the train to look for a man getting off with a suit case, and young Whitlock was right behind him when he got off. The sheriff and Deputy Sheriff Johnson, of Berea, were at the depot waiting for them, when they got off, and his arrest was quickly made. The sheriff clapped irons on Thomas as he said that he was tired of having to fight his prisoners after he had arrested them, to make them come along.

Reports have been current around the court house for some time that moonshiners and bootleggers were coming into Madison from the mountains with liquor every week and reaping a rich harvest from those who would have this drink. It was said that few came straight in to Richmond. Most of them would either go on beyond Richmond, and get off at Red House or Shearer, and have an accomplice meet them in a buggy or car and bring them on in to town under cover of night. Others get off at Fort Estill or points below, like Mayde, and either walk in or drive in later with their illicit goods. Many of the bootleggers are said to go to East Bernstadt for their supply, going down on one train and back of No. 38, which gives them an hour or so at East Bernstadt, ample time to get their supply and get here with it for the evening trade. It is this sort of game that the grand jury is now fighting with every power it can summon to its assistance.

HOOVER OUTLINES WHAT HE WANTS

(By Associated Press)
New York, Feb. 24.—Herbert Hoover declared in a statement today that he had left it to Harding to decide whether he could be of more service as Secretary of Commerce or as director of European relief. The statement was made after Hoover had announced that upon Harding's invitation to become a member of the cabinet, he had put up to Harding a proposal to reconstruct the Department of Commerce.

New York, Feb. 24.—Herbert Hoover, who has been offered the secretaryship of Commerce in Harding's cabinet, announced today he has put up to Harding a proposal for a general reconstruction of the department and enlargements of its life. Asked if he would enter the cabinet if his views were met, he said he had not "put it up to Harding that way. It was not a question of 'take it or leave it,' he said.

MILITIAMEN TO TRAIN AT CAMP KNOX

(By Associated Press)

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 24.—Sixty thousand national guardsmen will gather annually at Camp Henry Knox, Ky., the United States army artillery school, if plans placed before the War Department by Adjutant General Jackson Morris are approved. It is planned to make Camp Knox the training ground for the national guardsmen of Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky.

Gen. Morris, in recommendations sent to the Fourth Army corps headquarters at Ft. Benjin Harrison, Ind., urges that $600,000 of the $600,000 appropriated for training national guardsmen be used to erect a 125-target rifle range for the use of the 37th and 38th national guard divisions at Camp Henry Knox. His plan calls for the assembly of the troops of these divisions at Camp Knox for two weeks annually.

"Nothing would be taught at the camp except those things that cannot be taught on the drill floor," said Gen. Morris. "The men would be trained in divisional and regimental tactics, landscape sketching, map reading, and the use of all the arms that go into the making of a modern army."

"The rifle range would be located about four miles from the main cantonment on the reservation. When a regiment was slated to go to the rifle range, it would be marched out the night before and sleep under canvas. Bright and early the next day the men would go onto the range.

"While one detachment of 125 was shooting on the range, the other members of the regiment would be trained in the use of the hand grenade, machine guns, rapid fire rifles and the care of weapons. In this way every man would be busy all the time and they would learn much that cannot be taught in the armories."

Starving China's Cry

"CHINA'S MADONNA OF MISERY" Drawn and lithographed by Henry Balogh as a poster contribution to China's Cry: "Please Help!"

MORE than 10,000,000 persons in the five famine stricken provinces of north central China face starvation and of this number 15,000,000 now are subsisting on dry leaves, dry grass and bark from trees. Drought killed the crops a year and a half ago. There is no surplus in China's bi-seasonal crops; her great population requires this double bounty of nature to live. The drought continued, the summer crop never materialized. With the greatest fortitude the people then planted for the fall crop. The drought continued and their last hope vanished. Then America awoke to the fact that 45,000,000 persons were without adequate clothing or fuel and 15,000,000, besides lacking these necessities of life, have not a mouthful of food. Dr. E. Y. Mullins, president of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary, is chairman of the China Famine Fund which is collecting funds in Kentucky to send immediately to the famine zone in China. Joseph Burge, a Board of Trade Building, Louisville, is treasurer.

SULLIVAN WANTS WOMAN ON TICKET

Writes Interesting Letter On Subject To Daily Register—Now In Miami, Fla.

Hon. Jere A. Sullivan, who has now gone to Miami, Fla., for a stay writes the Daily Register that he believes a woman should be nominated for some important county office by the Democrats of Madison. He gives some strong reasons, in the letter he writes, which will be of interest to his many friends here. He writes:

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 15, 1921
My Dear Mr. Saffley:
I send you this letter to inform you that on next Wednesday morning, Feb. 16, 1921, I will leave for Miami, Fla., and my address at Miami, at least temporarily, will be J. A. Sullivan, San Carlos hotel, Miami, Fla. I would be glad if you would begin next Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 15, 1921, to forward to my address at Miami, my Daily Register.

As you know, I arrived here at St. Joseph's Infirmary, Louisville, Ky., on the evening of January 19, 1921; and I desire to thank you for the promptness and regularity with which I have since received my Daily Register. In order to appreciate the value of a home paper for the news therein we must be away from home and I want to tell you that I now appreciate the Daily Register more than I ever did before because it gives all the daily happenings of the city of Richmond and the county of Madison that are worthy to be mentioned to a paper.

As you may know, since I was paralyzed eight years ago, to wit, Jan. 27, 1913, I have been coming to this infirmary about this time every year before going south. Here I have undergone treatment of the two best doctors I could find in Kentucky. On this trip, they have given me close and special examinations and I am happy to tell you that after a month's observations of me, they give me their combined professional assurance that I am in better condition than I have been during the past eight years, or since I was paralyzed. They see no reason why I should not get well and while my progress to recovery has been very slow, it has been sure. I know you can (Continued on Page 6)

Can Anyone Resist This Appeal

Parents carrying their starving children from door to door pleading with someone to adopt them; thousands of bodies of children; and aged persons lining the roadsides, the victims of famine and unanswered cries for food: this is the picture described by the Rev. Wm. W. Stout, Louisville minister now in China, in a letter received by Rev. Dr. E. Y. Mullins, who is chairman of the China Famine Fund in Kentucky. Stout formerly occupied various Louisville and Kentucky pulpits. His letter in part follows:

"As many persons as were killed in the world war now are in imminent danger of starvation. Men and women are roaming the country like gaunt, wild eyed wolves. Children, some naked and others half naked, swarm like starving rats about the places where they hope some bits of food may be dropped. Thousands fall and die by the roadsides unburied because the survivors lack the strength to dig graves.

"Whole families are committing suicide to escape the agonies of starvation when all hope of aid has been given up. Children are being sold in the desperate hope that their lives may be preserved until the next harvest.

"Not only is there a lack of food, but the straw and the stalks of the grain which is commonly used for fuel is no longer obtainable. Their clothing has been sold for almost nothing to vulture like merchants from other parts of China. Added to the horrors of starvation and freezing, there are diseases that always come with famine. The most horrible nightmare could not be worse than the every day scenes we encounter.

"I have seen a mother or father weakened by disease and almost dying carrying an emaciated child trying to have it adopted or give it away to save its life.

"We missionaries have heard cries for bread, cries that can never be forgotten. However, until this famine, we were generally always able to do something to alleviate the distress.

"China is looking to America for help. If we fail her, all hope is lost. The simple confidence of the average Chinese in the people of America and American ideals is touching. This friendship will do more to keep the peace of the world and avert a crisis in the Far East than the greatest navy we can build. Now that friendship is being put to the test.

"But China knows we are rich in foodstuffs. She knows there are probably millions of bushels of unharvested crops rotting in the fields.

"Even from the standpoint of giving us National security in the future, the amount of money America gives for the starving people of other nations will mean more than 100 times that amount spent building up big armies and navies."

Contributions are going in from all parts of Kentucky to Joseph Burge, treasurer, Board of Trade building, Louisville, which will be acknowledged through the columns of each county newspaper in the state.

"Stop Thief! Leave me my diaphragm!" That will be your speechless cry if you see smiling Tom Moore at the local theatres Friday, in his newest comedy, based on the famous farce, "Stop Thief!" The combination of star and comedy is a veritable thief of laughter in that you will laugh until your diaphragm is so sore you can't laugh any more. It's a wholesome farce that will please every taste from grandmother to little Johnny.

Wanda Hawley At Local Theatres Today

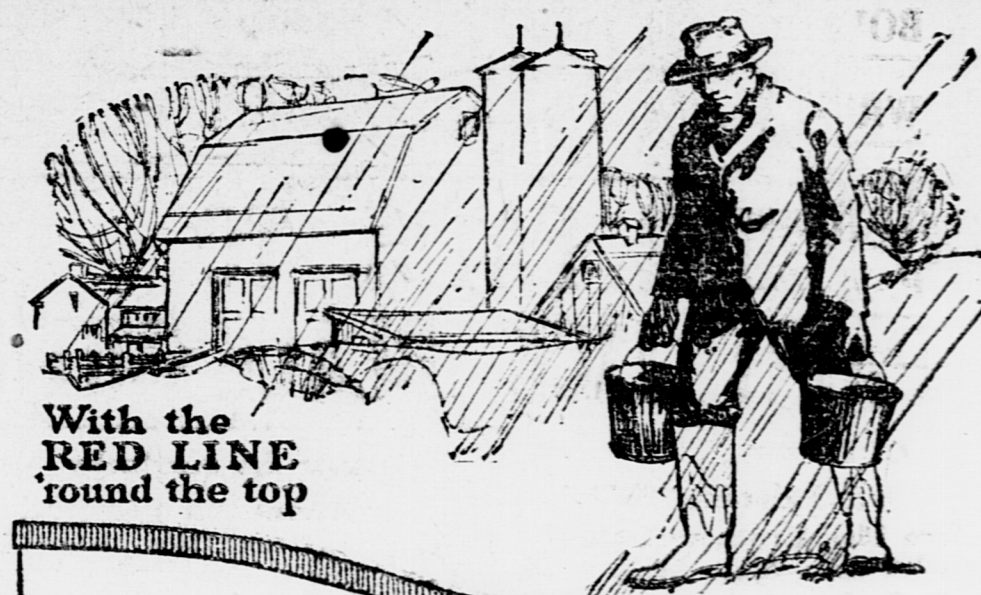

Those who have watched to see if Wanda Hawley would repeat her remarkable opening success in "Miss Hobbs," had their curiosity gratified today when her second Realart starring vehicle, "Food for Scandal," opened at the local theatres.

This comedy is entirely different from "Miss Hobbs," but Miss Hawley's versatility is given full chance for expression. As Sylvia Figueroa, heiress of a proud of California family, who later becomes "Maybelle Flowers" — "Kissing Girl" of the "Vanities," the star hits upon an entirely new line of comedy than that produced in the story of the super-fadish man-hater. And it need not be said that this tale of Spanish-America and the footlights gives exceptional opportunities for the wearing of beautiful clothes.

Lucy Cotton is the star of "Blind Love," a remarkable six part special feature photodrama which will be presented at the local theatres Saturday. Both star and play have met with the hearty approval of large audiences and the motion picture has been declared by those who've seen it to be one of the finest film productions made in many months.

More farmers are wearing Goodrich Rubber Footwear today than ever before.

The reason for this tremendous increase in users is simple—Goodrich wears longer than other footwear, and farmers have found it out. Naturally, when a man buys a pair of Goodrich "Hi-Press" and they last so much longer and are so much more comfortable, and so materially cut down that big footwear bill—he's going to tell his friends.

More and more farmers are finding out that Goodrich won't leak, peel or come apart—it can't, for it is made in One Solid Piece—that's the Goodrich way.

Adding Color to Street Dress

THE blouse has endeared itself to women for many reasons and has been developed in such great variety that the theme is endless. Starting with the tailored blouse of wash materials—the direct descendant of the shirtwaist—it runs through many dainty developments in lingerie blouses of sheer cottons or linen, hand-made or otherwise, that commend themselves because of their perpetual freshness. It is fashioned in styles that give it the flavor of the sport suit, the tailored suit, the separate skirt—for morning or afternoon—and comes through its frequent tubing as good as new. Blouses of georgette are even more desired, because of the beauty of this fabric and its additional charm of color. And besides these two great favorites, there are blouses of satin, of net, lace and various silks to be reckoned with. Altogether they are a new story all the time.

Two of the simplest designs among those that make up spring displays, as shown in the picture, will interest the woman who undertakes the making of blouses at home. They are intended for wear with suits or skirts and are both washable, fulfilling the mission of the lingerie blouse and adding a color to the sedate street suit or tailored skirt. In each of them a feature of the new designs appears in the obliteration of a girder or belt. Blouses are extended below the waist, in the front at least, and there is a vague definition of the waist line in them, but they are often shaped to form a short sash at the back. The satin blouse at the left of the picture is a slip-over model with a little braid trimming and that at the right is of georgette, having the new three-quarter length, flaring sleeves. An apron panel at the front, displays a bit of embroidery and hemstitching provides the finished, careful workmanship that is the chief asset of blouses for wear with suits.

EDGAR HIGGINS STAR OF FAST BASKET GAME

The Richmond basket ball fans witnessed a real treat in basket-ball Wednesday night when Model High met Madison High for the second game of the season. The friendly rivalry existing between the two schools served to lend an edge to the game which is usually lacking in games played with visiting teams. The loyal rooters of both schools were present and did their utmost to urge their respective teams on to greater efforts. The players responded most nobly and as the game progressed flashes of brilliant playing became more pronounced.

At the end of the first period Model had 13 points to her credit while Madison had 11. The surprise player of the occasion was Edgar Higgins. Up to the present time young Higgins has been what is termed a "bench warmer" but last night owing to illness of Bill Crutcher, Kit Crutcher was shifted to guard and Higgins was sent in at forward. His ability to find the basket netted his team 12 points. Blanton's skill in shooting from free throw netted 12 points out of a possible 15. Clouse for Madison in the second half dropped four baskets making him the highest individual scorer for his team. Both teams showed up ragged in guarding and displayed a tendency to pass wild.

Coaches Coffman and Hembree have every reason to be proud of the development of two such teams. Both alike were faced at the opening of the season with the problem of whipping a bunch of inexperienced men into a smoothly working machine. All are confident that both teams will give good accounts of themselves in the approaching tournament to be held in Winchester on March 4 and 5.

LONDON GIRLS FIND 'SHINE TOO STRONG'

Chief Prohibition Officer Kramer's observations about women and whisky were corroborated by a Richmond man, who was in London, Wednesday. He was sitting in a hotel at the Laurel county capital, and says one of the prettiest and nicest dressed girls he had seen in a long time came staggering through the lobby, trying to get to a phone to tell her mother at East Bernstadt that she would not be home that night. She then went out. The streets were a mass of mud and slop. The girl hadn't gone a hundred yards before she fell prone in a perfect lollapaloo of mud and water. The scene was pitiful, the local man says. There other girls, who seemed to live at London, and a man joined her and helped her along. The other girls were plainly under the influence of liquor, also. The local traveling man says that someone told him that the girls had been given a drink of moonshine whisky, sort of as a joke by a man, and that "it knocked them sky high" at once and caused them to make public spectacles of themselves.

WHAT MADE THE CHANGE?

This Woman says Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her a New Woman

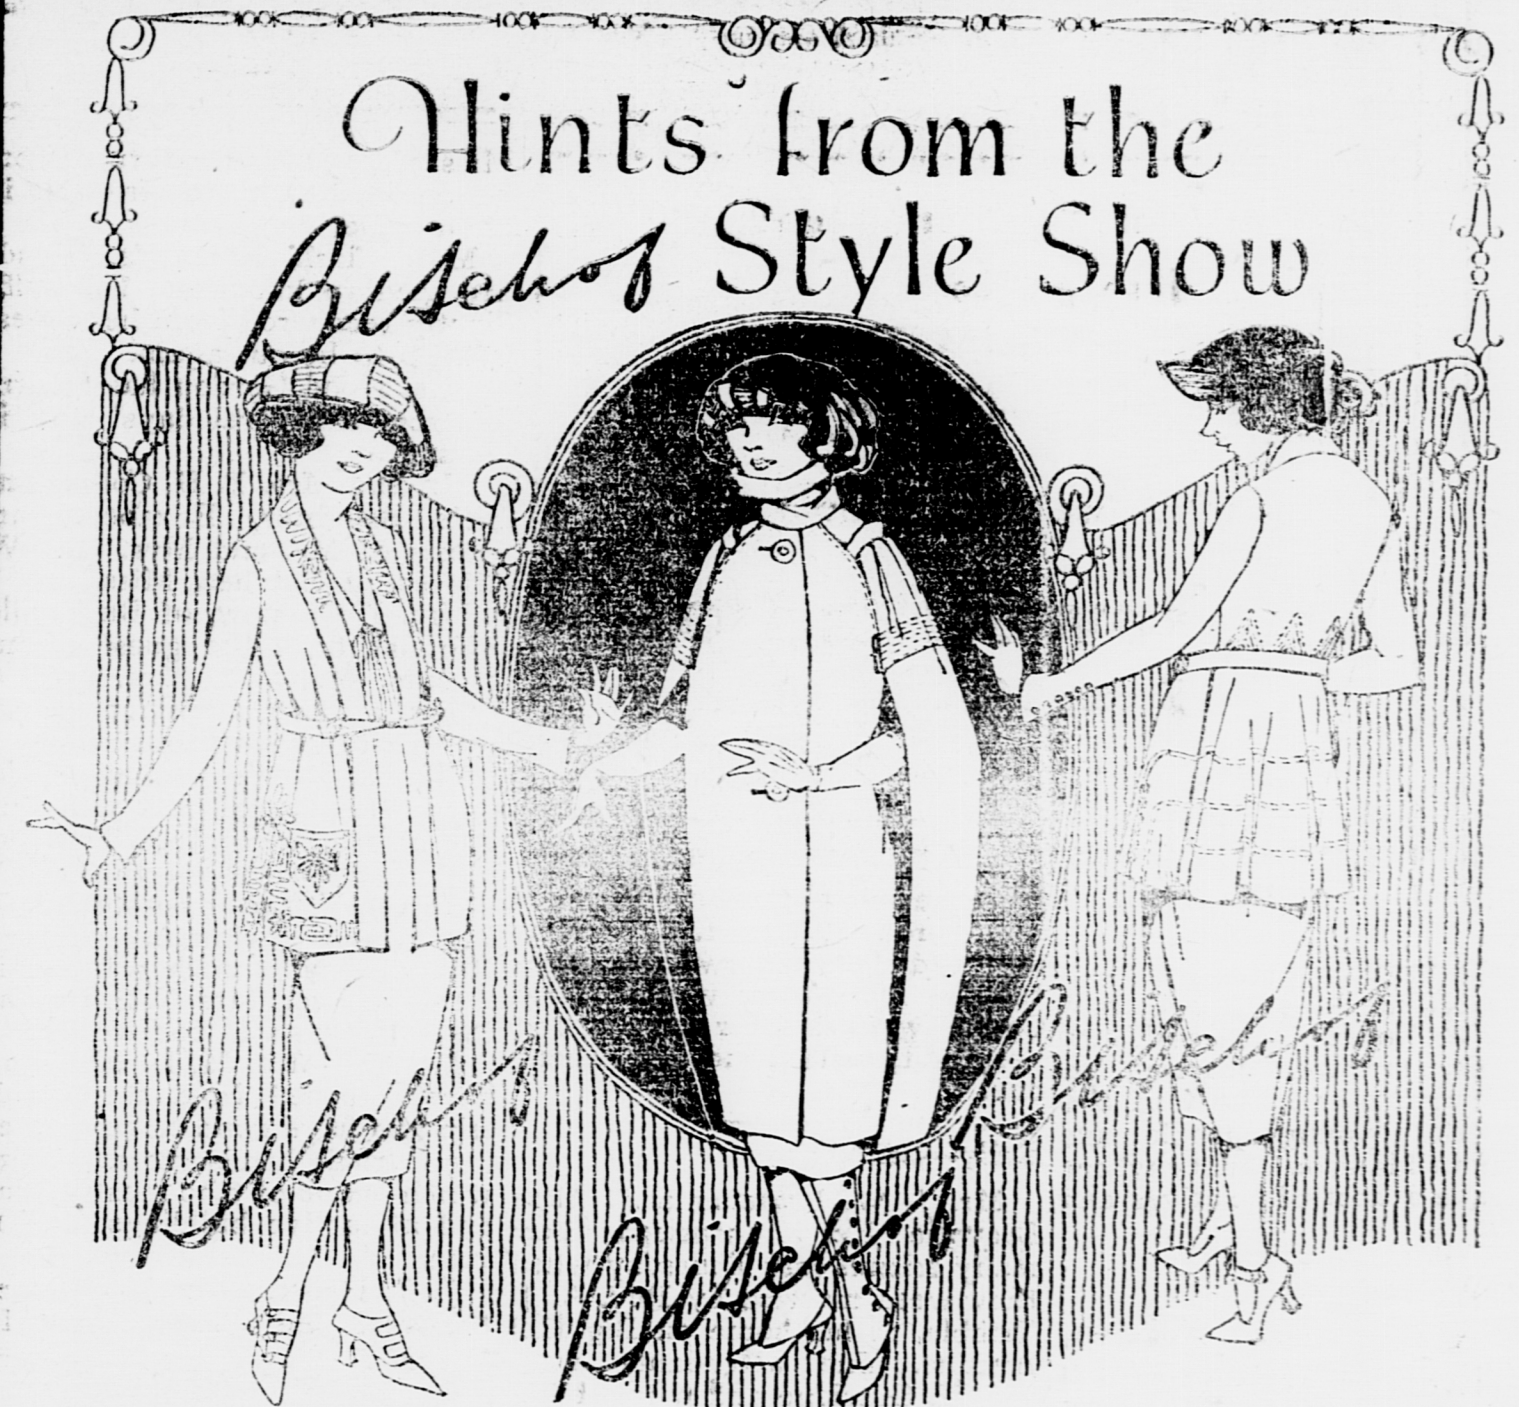

Pittsburgh, Pa.—"Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I had bearing-down pains in my sides, stomach and back so badly that I could hardly stand up. I was white and very thin and nervous, had a poor appetite and only weighed 112 pounds. I took ten bottles without missing one dose and gave it a fair trial. When I finished the last bottle everyone asked me what made the wonderful change in me. I told them about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I recommend it wherever I can. I give you permission to publish this letter to help suffering women as your remedies are a god-send and made a new woman of me."
Mrs. F. A. BAKER, 4749 Butler St., Pittsburgh, Pa.
Why will women drag around day after day, suffering from bearing-down pains, nervousness and "the blues," enduring a miserable existence when they have such evidence as the above that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a dependable remedy for such troubles. For nearly forty years this grand old root and herb medicine has been restoring the women of America to health and strength.

Kramer On A Raid

Greenville, S. C., Feb. 24—John F. Kramer, Federal Prohibition Commissioner was "the man with the hoe" in this county today, personally breaking up a 25-gallon "moonshine" still with the implement used to stir the mash. The copper condenser was preserved for Mr. Kramer as a souvenir of his first raid.

The Federal dry chief, visiting from Washington, accompanied state officers into the "dark corners" of the county on a hunt for illicit stills. They found one, in a ravine, but the moonshiners had fled, and the job of "busting up" the apparatus was turned over to Mr. Kramer.

"A most interesting experience," he said, adding that he had not known before "what a still looked like."

Friends will be sorry to know that City Councilman Bob Golden has been confined to his home several days by illness.

FAVORS CHANGE IN CONSTITUTION

Mandatory Provision Is Made for Adequate Salaries.

CARRIED BY BIG MAJORITY

New Constitutional Amendment Is Declared the Most Important School Measure Adopted Since State Was Admitted to the Union—Statewide Minimum Salary of $1,500 a Year Is Made Possible—Kindergarten Schools Become Part of State System.

The voters of California on November 2, by a majority of more than 200,000, adopted a constitutional amendment containing some of the most forward-looking educational provisions ever put into a state constitution. The amendment provides that hereafter California shall contribute, out of its treasury, toward the support of the public schools an amount which shall be not less than $30 per pupil per year in average daily attendance in the elementary and high schools, and that the counties must raise, in addition at least $50 per pupil in average daily attendance in the elementary schools and at least $80 per pupil in average daily attendance in the high schools.

It is also provided by the amendment that all of the school moneys contributed by the state and 60 per cent of the sums raised by the counties must be used for the payment of teachers' salaries. California will thus be able to establish a statewide minimum salary of fully $1,200 a year. The amendment makes the kindergarten schools a part of the state school system, and provides for normal schools and teachers' colleges.

Proposed by Teachers.

The amendment was proposed by the California Teachers' association, and the campaign for its adoption was under the direction of a committee of the association, of which County Superintendent Mark Keppel of Los Angeles was chairman. The committee drafted the amendment, submitted it by initiative petition and procured its approval by the voters. The amendment was placed on the ballot through thousands of signatures in excess of the 55,000 that were needed.

In every city, town and school district in the state the fight for the amendment was carried. A "Primer of Education and School Finance" was printed in The Sierra Educational News, the official organ of the association, and was distributed throughout the state. Nearly two million campaign cards with the slogan, "A Square Deal for Every Child," were sent to the voters. Hundreds of amendment meetings were held and thousands of automobiles carried the amendment appeal.

The teachers obtained generous support from the press. Through funds raised by teachers, display ads, giving all the facts, were run in the principal newspapers throughout the state. The movies took a prominent part in the campaign. Many clubs and fraternal orders co-operated.

Will C. Wood, superintendent of public instruction, in a statement to the voters of California preceding the election, said:

"The proposed constitutional amendment relating to the public schools is the most important school measure submitted to the people of California since the first constitution was adopted in 1849. It is the Magna Charta of education in California.

"It establishes definitely in the constitution the towns under which state, county and school districts become pronounced in the report of the public school.

Fixes State Contribution.

"It fixes the annual state contribution for elementary schools at $30 per pupil, which is an increase of approximately 50 per cent. It also makes it impossible to reduce this amount except by vote of the people.

"It fixes the annual state contribution for high school purposes at $80 per pupil, which is an increase of 100 per cent.

"It writes into the constitution the provisions of the county high school fund bill, which more than any other law has promoted the development of high schools in California. This bill is subject to repeal at any time by the legislature. Amendment 16 makes its repeal impossible except by vote of the people.

"It writes into the constitution the provisions of the county elementary school tax law, making its repeal impossible except by vote of the people.

"It applies the principle that money for school purposes should be raised by taxes levied according to ability to pay, and that funds thus raised should be distributed to school districts according to the needs of the children to be educated.

"It will reopen the hundreds of schools now closed for lack of teachers because of inadequate salaries. It will encourage young people to enter our normal schools to prepare for teaching. It will enable us to restore the efficiency of the schools.

"It guarantees that all the money raised by the state and 60 per cent of the money raised by the counties for school purposes shall be used for teaching. The money cannot be used for the construction of elaborate buildings to satisfy community pride at the expense of the children. It must be used for education."

FIRST INDIAN BATTLE IN KY. WAS IN MADISON

The first contest between the whites and Indians, on Kentucky soil, occurred Saturday morning, March 25, 1775, in what is now Madison county, about 15 miles south of the Kentucky river near Fort Estill, writes Col. Jim Maret in his "First Things in Kentucky." He says:

Unconscious of the near approach of danger, the men under Col. Boone lay in their camp asleep unguarded and without any sentinels to warn them of approaching danger. The attack was sudden, about half an hour before day; the first notice being a volley of rifles discharged at the sleepers around the camp fires. The contest was soon over.

The Indians were not in sufficient force to overpower the whites, and having dispersed part of them, did not follow up their advantage. Capt. Wm. Twetty was shot in both knees, and died on March 28, the first death of a class of leading or prominent men of whom so many fell victims to the Indian hate during the first eight years of the settling of Kentucky, culminating in the battle of Blue Licks, August 18, 1782, when the leaders were mowed down by the score.

The Indians picked the leaders as the first object of attack, realizing that nothing so contributed to the fright that precedes defeat as the loss of the directing head, their universal experience, which they applied with unvarying wisdom.

Capt. Twetty's body servant, a black man, was killed, and Felix Walkers dangerously wounded. Some of the party did not recover from the panic; but, following the trail they had just helped to make, continued their flight to the settlements of Virginia. Walker could not be removed without danger of instant death, and several remained with him at the same place for twelve days, when, carrying him in a litter between two horses, they proceeded to the Kentucky river, at the mouth of Otter Creek, and selecting "a plain on the south side, wherein was a lick with two sulphur springs strongly impregnated, they made a station and called it Boonesboro.

Imagine how happy this news is to me, but as you observe, they do not say I am now well, but that they think I will get well—and even the chance to get well brings sunshine into one's life.

I have enjoyed my stay at this hospital more this time than ever before, which is due, no doubt, to the fact of the report of my doctors as to my condition. This hospital is a very busy place and is practically a surgical hospital. It has two operating rooms, well equipped and many surgeons operate here but the chief surgeon of them all and the chief surgeon in the whole south is Dr. Irvin Abel. I have seen patients here during the past month for Abel to operate on from Indiana, Illinois and Tennessee, besides Kentucky. So large is his surgery practice that he will not operate on everybody that even needs to be operated on, for the simple reason that he has not the time to do so. He begins operating on patients here at 7:30 in the morning and continues until the afternoon, or until he is through. As first assistant he has Dr. M. Joe Henry. Dr. Henry spent several years under the Mayo Brothers and was a high assistant under them, but he was born and reared in Louisville, Ky., and he visited me several times socially at Richmond, Ky. The second assistant is Dr. U. J. Smith, a young man from Alabama. This hospital were twice its present size and if Dr. Abel would operate on everybody that appealed to him and needed operating on, he would more than fill it with patients. He is a descendant from the old English settlement of Catholics located at Bardstown over a hundred years ago and came from Maryland and is of English and Irish blood.

DIXIE AUTO COMPANY

The result of the election was as might have been expected that many women were elected to the most important offices, and in some cases wives beat their husbands for such important offices as sheriff and mayor and other offices. There may be some offices that women can fill better than men as there may be some offices that men can fill better than women, and we must not forget that women can have deputies under them as well as men can have deputies under them. The people of Madison should not wait until some woman or soldier boy well qualified to fill an office announces but should press them and invite them to announce and when so announced should give them their support; but in no event should any woman or soldier boy be induced to run for any office unless he or she is well qualified therefor, and if something be not done, the result in this state will be the same as that in the western state and all the nominations will go to the same ambitious greedy men or families or sections.

A condition and not a theory confronts the Democratic party in Kentucky and Madison county. The register and the vote of last year show that there are more women voters than men voters in Richmond and Madison county and I know that there are some women in Madison county that are better qualified to fill offices than some men and it is perfectly absurd to expect those women to support the Democratic nominations unless the women are treated, at least fairly, in making the nominations. I think you know me well enough to know that I am far more interested in good government than I am in party government and in having good officers than in having Democratic officers. But, still, I am an ardent Democrat, and I believe in the principles of that party and its method of government.

I feel proud of the way the Madison farmers have treated the tobacco situation this year. It shows that they are a business and law abiding people and not easily swept off their feet by intimidation or greed. I am happy over the increase in the attendance of the Normal school there, and I am sure the attendance at the close of this year will surpass 2000; but I want you to recollect that the Normal school is only practically beginning and that the day is not far distant, I think when the attendance of the Normal school will be at least 5000 yearly. The attendance now is limited only by the inability to get comfortable rooms for the students.

In conclusion, I beg you not to forget to send me my Daily Register to Miami, Fla. Thanking you therefor, I am, yours sincerely, J. A. SULLIVAN
